Rating Action: Moody's assigns first-time issuer ratings to five German banks

11 Sep 2018

Frankfurt am Main, September 11, 2018 -- Moody's Investors Service today assigned first-time long-term and short-term issuer ratings to the following five German banks: Berlin Hyp AG, DekaBank Deutsche Girozentrale, Deutsche Hypothekenbank (Actien-Gesellschaft), Deutsche Kreditbank AG, and Muenchener Hypothekenbank eG.

Moody's assigns banks' issuer ratings at the level of the most senior unsecured debt class available to that bank for plain vanilla instruments. For Germany, being a jurisdiction with an operational resolution regime and where multiple classes of senior unsecured debt exist, this is the senior unsecured debt class. The outlooks of the long-term issuer ratings match the outlooks of the banks' long-term senior unsecured debt ratings, where assigned.

All other ratings of the five banks were unaffected by today's rating action.

A full list of assigned ratings can be found at the end of this press release.

RATINGS RATIONALE

Moody's issuer ratings are opinions of a bank's ability to honour senior unsecured debt obligations and, accordingly, the issuer ratings assigned today reflect: (1) the banks' Baseline Credit Assessment (BCA) and Adjusted BCA; (2) the results of Moody's Advanced Loss Given Failure (LGF) analysis, resulting in three notches of rating uplift for all banks, which is the maximum level possible under Moody's Banks methodology; and (3) the rating agency's assumptions of government support for the five banks' senior unsecured debt obligations, reflected in moderate support assumptions and one notch of uplift for all, except for Deutsche Kreditbank AG, where a low government support assumption and zero notches of uplift apply.

Banks' issuer ratings are assigned at the level of the most senior plain vanilla unsecured bonds, which for German banks is the senior unsecured debt rating. As a result, the banks' issuer ratings equal their respective senior unsecured debt ratings, where these are assigned.

Because the banks' issuer ratings are aligned with their senior unsecured debt ratings, the outlooks on the long-term issuer ratings mirror the banks' outlooks on their assigned long-term senior unsecured debt ratings.

WHAT COULD CHANGE THE RATINGS UP

The banks' issuer ratings could be upgraded following an upgrade of their BCA and Adjusted BCA.

Upward pressure on the banks' BCA could develop as a result of improvements in their solvency, specifically through a reduction of leverage and a strengthening of capital ratios, as well as an improvement of profitability without compromising their risk profiles. In addition, upward pressure on the standalone intrinsic strength may stem from a greater diversification of the banks' funding sources, including less market confidence sensitive funding, where applicable.

The banks' Adjusted BCAs could be upgraded as a consequence of an upgrade of the BCA and/or higher rating uplift from affiliate support, where applicable. Higher uplift from affiliate support could result from Moody's re-assessment of available affiliate support and/or a strengthening of support providers' standalone financial strength.

WHAT COULD CHANGE THE RATINGS DOWN

The banks' issuer ratings could be downgraded following a downgrade of their BCA and Adjusted BCA, or due to lower rating uplift for senior obligations under Moody's Advanced LGF analysis, or because of a reduction in government support assumptions, where applicable.

Downward pressure on the banks' BCA could develop as a result of a weakening of their solvency metrics or a deterioration in their combined liquidity profile.
Downward pressure on the banks’ Adjusted BCAs could develop as a result of a BCA downgrade or a weakening of their affiliate support providers’ standalone financial fundamentals, which may result in lower rating uplift from affiliate support.

The banks’ ratings could also experience downward pressure from a rising loss severity. Sustained lower volumes of subordinated liabilities, junior senior unsecured debt or senior unsecured debt could result in fewer notches of rating uplift under Moody’s Advanced LGF analysis. Specifically, a gradual replacement of junior senior unsecured debt or subordinated liabilities by senior unsecured debt could result in fewer notches of rating uplift for issuer ratings.

Furthermore, where applicable, Moody’s re-assessment of the likelihood of government support could reduce rating uplift and downward rating pressure for rating classes that presently benefit from government support uplift.
